Safety Tip of the Week
—Methods for Controlling Bleeding—
Part one this week—more to follow next week.

1. Direct pressure (usually controls most bleeding). Apply firm pressure over wound using palm side of hand. When thick pad is available use it between the wound and your hand.

Add extra pad thicknesses as needed. Do not remove clotted pads. Make sure that pad material is sterile, or as clean as possible. Firmly bandage pad when material is available.

Next week: Elevation (reduces flow to injured part) and pressure on supplying artery.

THIS WEEK AT ETHEL BISBEE SCHOOL

At the Thursday assembly the children celebrated Johnny Appleseed's birthday. A filmstrip about Johnny Appleseed was shown.

Awards were given to Andy Aaron (Super Reading), Tony Paten (penmanship), Nathan Harvey and Brian Larson (Politeness), by Miss Andre.

Some children in Mrs. Gould's and Mrs. McCluskey's rooms showed pictures they had drawn of Johnny Appleseed.

Following the assembly the children returned to their rooms to sample apples donated by L/P Orchards of Turner. Thirteen varieties were available: Wealthies, Old Fashioned, Spies, Cortland, Spartan, Red Delicious, McCowan, Early Blaze, Mutsu, McIntosh, Golden Delicious, Ben Davis, Spencer and Red Spies. "FLAMMABLE LIQUIDS"—A HOUSEHOLD COMMODITY

The U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that 25,000 people each year require hospital emergency room treatment for injuries involving flammable liquids. More than 13,500 of these injuries are related to gasoline, most of those are burns caused by fire or explosion. Here are some typical accident patterns:

Bill threw some more denatured alcohol onto the charcoal fire after it had been lit. The vapors ignited, the flames traveled up to the can, and it exploded. Bill was sprayed with flaming liquid which ignited his clothing. He suffered burns over 60% of his body and spent three days in the hospital.

Carolyn was using gasoline to remove paint which had spilled on the floor of her small utility room. The burner of the water heater came on and ignited the gasoline vapors, causing the room to explode in flames. Carolyn suffered burns on her face, hands, and legs and spent weeks in the hospital.

Four-year-old Marty took the kerosene can out of the closet and opened the can. His mother found him just as he was sipping the kerosene and she took him to the hospital immediately. He suffered mild kerosene poisoning but recovered shortly after the incident.

These illustrations represent some of the major accident patterns which occur:

1. Using flammable liquids to light charcoal fires—It is dangerous to use anything other than charcoal lighter fluid for this purpose, and it is very dangerous to put more fluid on the fire once it has started.

2. Using flammable liquids near sources of ignition—One of the most common and often forgotten ignition sources is the pilot light of a water heater or gas stove. Lighted cigarettes and matches are also dangerous around flammable liquids. In cases of clothing ignition, the presence of a flammable liquid makes the resulting burn much more severe.

3. Swallowing flammable liquids—Most of the kerosene-related injuries involve poisoning when children swallow it. The children get on the fuel and some of it gets into their lungs. Even a teaspoonful can cause death. (This is also a hazard associated with siphoning gasoline by mouth).

Another hazardous practice is carrying gasoline in the trunk of your car. If you store gasoline in your trunk and are hit from the rear by another car, there can be a fatal explosion. If you survive, the recovery may be long and

SEN. WILLIAM COHEN From Washington

A 77-year-old woman whose purse recently was snatched while standing on the street corner spent 49 days in the hospital and consequently lost the use of her left arm.

An elderly couple were robbed outside their home on New Year's Eve last year. Their assailants sprayed them with Mace and threatened them with an 8-inch knife.

Hattie X., a 70-year-old woman, suffered a violent rape assault in her apartment while she was babysitting her great-grandchildren. Her attacker has not been caught and she fears retaliation for reporting the crime to the police.

The Senate Special Committee on Aging, of which I am a member, heard testimony by these people and more last week as we explored the serious problem of crime against the elderly.

After hearing these people speak, I was struck by the descriptions of the permanent sense of fear that remains with elderly victims for the rest of their lives—a fear that seems as horrible as the crimes themselves.

While it is practically impossible for Congress to legislate a

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

The Book of Hebrews—a masterpiece, priceless knowledge, especially for the Christians. We read and relish such words as, "but in these last days he (God) has spoken to us by his Son—Jesus Christ, whom he appointed heir of all things, and through whom he made the universe."

Think of it, all the universe—earth and all that dwell therein—the stars, moon and all the unknown where even now scientists are astonished at the information being returned to earth by such as Voyager One and Two.

And to think, to know that one day God's own children will join with Christ—be in his presence as we marvel forever at the wonders of his creation. One would believe the greatest of all miracles is being born again into a new life in Christ—salvation. "God testified to it by signs, wonders and various miracles, and gifts of the Holy Spirit distributed according to his will."

And to know that Jesus is not ashamed to call us brothers! "As Jesus says: Here am I, and the children God has given me."

Our Holy and wonderful Christ—"Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in this humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery—."

"For this reason he had to be made like his brothers in every way, in order that he might make atonement for the sins of the people. Because he himself suffered where he was tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted." "Therefore, holy brothers, who share in this heavenly calling—fix your thoughts on Jesus—"

Yes, we can thank God daily for Jesus who bore our sins on the Cross—where he suffered, bled and died. Imagine, taking our punishment—rightfully ours and dying on the Cross—where he overcame Satan.

"Then I (Jesus) said—Here I am, it is written about me in the scrolls—I have come to do thy will, O God." 10:7 NV.

Fred Werner

painful. In many cases, there are permanent scars from the accident. Don't store gasoline in the trunk of your car!

Most Americans don't realize how easily flammable liquids can burn. The heavier-than-air vapors can flow invisibly along the ground and be ignited by a flame or spark from a considerable distance.

Flammable liquids are deadly—treat them with respect and with FIRE-WISE.

lution, there are many things that can be done, particularly on the community level, to help erase this fear and reduce crime.

The Committee heard from senior citizens who have decided to fight back — by forming neighborhood patrols and training residents to watch for and report suspicious events in their neighborhoods.

These citizen patrols have been extremely successful throughout the country, serving as the eyes and ears for law enforcement personnel who cannot be at all places at all times.

One particularly impressive speaker was a 73-year-old woman from Sun City, Ariz., who is a member of that retirement community's volunteer posse. These citizens patrol their neighborhoods on foot, bicycle, and even in golf carts. According to their sheriff's department, the posse saves taxpayers about $1 million a year by freeing more officers for patrol.

In Maine's rural areas, there are many things residents can do to protect themselves and their neighbors from crime. Ask your local law enforcement agency or senior citizen center about crime prevention programs, and, if none exist,

PREPARATION FOR FIRE EMERGENCIES GOOD PROJECT FOR FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The State Fire Marshal said that behind nearly every fire injury or death in a dwelling is the fact that the family was totally unprepared for a fire emergency.

"Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 4-10) is an appropriate time for families to pre-plan and practice escape procedures so needless tragedies may be avoided," said State Fire Marshal Don Bisset of the Maine Department of Public Safety.

Advance thinking and continuous rehearsing can help in keeping the first rule of fire safety—getting all family members out at the very first sign of smoke or flame. "The critical few minutes needed to escape from a fire can be provided by the use of one or more approved reasonably-priced smoke detectors," said Bisset. "Homeowners using a fireplace or woodburning stove should be especially aware of the need for and the benefits of smoke detectors."

The State Fire Marshal advised families to:

—Pick an assembly point well away from the house where all members of the household will meet for "roll call", and be sure everyone understands that the home must not be entered for any purpose.

—Carefully figure out at least two routes to the outside from any room in the house, especially bedrooms. Allow for blocking of doorways and halls by fire and choking smoke.

—A window may be the only alternate escape route from an upper floor of the house. Be sure exit windows work easily, and are large and low enough to get through.

—Use any available porch, shed and garage roofs as ways down to safety. If needed, install an escape ladder. Assign children to bedrooms with easy rooftop escape.

"Remember, if there's a fire, call the fire department—but if the number is not located on the telephone, then don't look for it, but call from a neighbor's house—and stay out of your home! Bear in mind that re-entry to save personal belongings frequently results in a needless loss of life," said Bisset.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
What Is Cross Country? (III)

Last week I described how a team scores and ultimately wins a meet. This happens on a regular basis only when those top seven runners are running at their full capability, and others are working to replace them, if for any reason they are missing from that top seven.

That in a nut-shell is the importance of depth on any team. Any team improves only when pushed by competition from within as well as without.

I hope that these letters have whetted the interest of some of you for X-C and individual sports in general. Formal team play is not the only way to go. There is room for people who would like to go their own way and still be a part of a team.

"FLAMMABLE LIQUIDS — A HOUSEHOLD COMMODITY"

The U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that 25,000 people each year require hospital emergency room treatment for injuries involving flammable liquids. More than 13,500 of these injuries are related to gasoline, most of those are burns caused by fire or explosion. Here are some typical accident patterns:

Bill threw some more denatured alcohol onto the charcoal fire after it had been lit. The vapors ignited, the flames traveled up to the can, and it exploded. Bill was sprayed with flaming liquid which ignited his clothing. He suffered burns over 60% of his body and spent three days in the hospital.

Carolyn was using gasoline to remove paint which had spilled on the floor of her small utility room. The burner of the water heater came on and ignited the gasoline vapors, causing the room to explode in flames. Carolyn suffered burns on her face, hands, and legs and spent weeks in the hospital.

Four-year-old Marty took the kerosene can out of the closet and opened the can. His mother found him just as he was sipping the kerosene and she took him to the hospital immediately. He suffered mild kerosene poisoning but recovered shortly after the incident.

These illustrations represent some of the major accident patterns which occur:

1. Using flammable liquids to light charcoal fires—It is dangerous to use anything other than charcoal lighter fluid for this purpose, and it is very dangerous to put more fluid on the fire once it has started.

2. Using flammable liquids near sources of ignition—One of the most common and often forgotten ignition sources is the pilot light of a water heater or gas stove. Lighted cigarettes and matches are also dangerous around flammable liquids. In cases of clothing ignition, the presence of a flammable liquid makes the resulting burn much more severe.

3. Swallowing flammable liquids—Most of the kerosene-related injuries involve poisoning when children swallow it. The children gag on the fuel and some of it gets into their lungs. Even a teaspoonful can cause death. (This is also a hazard associated with siphoning gasoline by mouth).

Another hazardous practice is carrying gasoline in the trunk of your car. If you store gasoline in your trunk and are hit from the rear by another car, there can be a fatal explosion. If you survive, the recovery may be long and painful.

SEN. WILLIAM COHEN From Washington

A 77-year-old woman whose purse recently was snatched while standing on the street corner spent 49 days in the hospital and consequently lost the use of her left arm.

An elderly couple were robbed outside their home on New Year's Eve last year. Their assailants sprayed them with Mace and threatened them with an 8-inch knife.

Hattie X, a 70-year-old woman, suffered a violent rape assault in her apartment while she was babysitting her great-grandchildren. Her attacker had not been caught and she fears retaliation for reporting the crime to the police.

The Senate Special Committee on Aging, of which I am a member, heard testimony by these people and more last week as we explored the serious problem of crime against the elderly.

After hearing these people speak, I was struck by the descriptions of the permanent sense of fear that remains with elderly victims for the rest of their lives—a fear that seems as horrible as the crimes themselves.

While it is practically impossible for Congress to legislate a re-

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

The Book of Hebrews—a masterpiece, priceless knowledge, especially for the Christians. We read and relish such words as, "but in these last days he (God) has spoken to us by his Son—Jesus Christ, whom he appointed heir of all things, and through whom he made the universe."

Think of it, all the universe—earth and all that dwell therein—the stars, moon and all the unknown where even now scientists are astonished at the information being returned to earth by such as Voyager One and Two.

And to think, to know that one day God's own children will join with Christ—be in his presence as we marvel forever at the wonders of his creation. One would believe the greatest of all miracles is being born again into a new life in Christ—salvation. "God testified to it by signs, wonders and various miracles, and gifts of the Holy Spirit distributed according to his will."

And to know that Jesus is not ashamed to call us brothers! "As Jesus says: Here am I, and the children God has given me." Our Holy and wonderful Christ—"Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in this humanity so that by his death he might destroy him who holds the power of death—that is, the devil—and free those who all their lives were held in slavery."

For this reason he had to be made like his brothers in every way, in order that he might make atonement for the sins of the people. Because he himself suffered where he was tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted."

Yes, we can thank God daily for Jesus who bore our sins on the Cross—where he suffered, bled and died. Imagine, taking our punishment—rightfully ours and dying on the Cross—where he overcame Satan.

"Then I (Jesus) said—'Here I am, it is written about me in the scrolls—I have come to do thy will, O God.'"

Fred Werner

Flammable liquids are deadly—treat them with respect and with FIRE-WISE.

In many cases, there are permanent scars from the accident. Don't store gasoline in the trunk of your car!

Most Americans don't realize how easily flammable liquids can burn. The heavier-than-air vapors can flow invisibly along the ground and be ignited by a flame or spark from a considerable distance.

101st ANNUAL FRYEBURG FAIR TO OPEN SUNDAY, OCT. 4

For the past 130 years Fryeburg Fair has been the outstanding annual agricultural event in southwestern Maine and the New Hampshire's border counties. This season the officers of the sponsoring West Oxford Agricultural Society predict an even larger attendance than last year's record-breaker.

Always the first full week in October, this year's Fair opens Sunday, Oct. 4, and runs through the following Sunday. Exhibition halls will be open daily, 9 a. m. 'til 9 p. m. but gates open daily at 7 a. m. Parimutuel harness racing is a feature each afternoon starting Tuesday, with runnings through Oct. 11. Night-time entertainment shows with international country and western stars begin Monday.

Re-scheduled this year because of its rise in popularity, the Border Collie show will be presented Opening Day at 9 a. m., along with traditional fireman's muster and Sunday horse show. The midway will be open from mid-morning.

The Society pig scramble, and pulling events featuring ponies, tractors, horses and oxen will also be on tap for Opening Day visitors.

Monday, with reduced prices on kiddieland rides through 5 p. m., is also the traditional Saco Valley Woodsmen's Field Day. Powder puff ox pulls, a Christmas Wreath demonstration and horse and oxen pulling competitions are on the program, with "The Stan Jr. Show" the night-time entertainment.

Tuesday, Oct. 6, is Senior Citizens' Day. All persons over 65 are invited to attend free of charge and there are special on-grounds parking facilities for wheel-chair guests near a new Shuffleboard Court with viewing areas. Fryeburg Fair has scheduled a Shuffleboard tournament, the judging of Devons, Charolais and Simmental cattle, 4-H sheep judging, and five pulling events during the daytime with a fiddler's contest as the evening attraction.

Several judging events are set for Wednesday with working oxen, beef cattle, show oxen and steers, beef short-horns, Aberdeen Angus, Ayrshires and Holsteins all scheduled. Lightweight ox pulls and heavyweight horse pulling events culminate in the early evening with a four ox pull feature, highly popular among Fryeburg regulars. The evening show stars the fabulous "Box Car Willie".

Thursday's program of events includes the grand sweepstakes in the ox pulls, a show of fitted scramble calves, 4-H baby beef judging (Showmanship classes), draft horses and horse hitchers and cattle judging round out the day-light hours. Evening brings the baby beef showmanship contest, beef cattle, show oxen and steers, beef short-horns, Aberdeen Angus, Ayrshires and Holsteins all scheduled. Lightweight ox pulls and heavyweight horse pulling events culminate in the early evening with a four ox pull feature, highly popular among Fryeburg regulars. The evening show stars the fabulous "Box Car Willie".

Friday is traditional Governor's Day, the 4-H baby beef auction an 11 a. m. headline in the pulling ring. The auction introduces some 70 young people and their cattle in what is probably the most spectacular single event during Fryeburg Fair Week.

Awards are traditionally presented by Maine's Governor or a designated representative. Other Friday features include calf and pig scrambles, the Maine Hereford Association Sale, pulling events and a 4-H sheep lead line. An evening fireworks show will introduce "The Penny DeHaven Show" with Keith Bradford, Tim Nichols and Quickchange.

Saturday is Farm Bureau Day, with trophy presentations in many events. The Grand Parade - lasting more than an hour and with hundreds of men and women, boys and girls, bands, antique automobiles and more than a thousand farm animals - starts at 10 o'clock. The Maine State Dairy Princess will be on hand as will a speaker from the American Farm Bureau, Dairy and pulling events are scheduled as is a night-time performance by the Death Riders Motorcycle Thrill Show.

Closing Day will include 4-H sheep blocking, the judging of 4-H steers, grand sweepstakes in horse pulling and 4-wheel-drive events, and surprise attractions to be announced during Fair Week.

Gould won both Varsity and JV soccer games with Telstar while the Rebel ladies beat Gould's Varsity field hockey 2-1 in overtime. The JV field hockey game ended in a 0-0 tie. The annual cross country team put on another display of power and overcame the Gould Huskies. Ken Remsen '67 was the individual winner.

Following a reception at the Headmaster's Home, a roast beef banquet was held in the Bingham Gym. At that time the Alumni Association recognized certain individuals for their contributions to Gould and the Nation.

Dexter M. Stowell '46 was presented the Alumnus-of-the-Year Award; Ordell "Andy" Anderson with a special faculty award in recognition of his 43 years as a Gould teacher, and the Hon. Margaret Chase Smith was designated for the Nathaniel Tuckerman True Award, an award named for Gould's first Headmaster and awarded to those who have contributed significantly to the world community.

Also awarded at the banquet were Gould's Honorary 50-Year Diplomas to the Golden Reunion Class of 1931.

Class reunion parties were then convened at many places in Bethel allowing those who travelled long distances a further chance to talk with old friends.

On Sunday a special reunion church service was held at the West Parish Congregational Church with the Reverend Daniel Gould's original Bible being used. One last athletic event was held, a basketball game that saw Gould Alumni again emerge victorious.

Plans are already underway for next year's reunion for the classes ending in 2's and 7's on Sept. 24-26, 1982.

POLICE REMIND DRIVERS OF SCHOOL BUS LAWS

With the new school year under way, the state police remind motorists of the laws regarding school buses.

"In addition to following the school bus law, motorists are advised to be particularly careful during morning 'going-to-work' traffic as children walk to school and buses stop to pick up children," said Col. Allan H. Weeks, chief of the Maine State Police.

Col. Weeks also advises parents to have their children not to play or run around at bus pick-up areas while waiting for or when getting off a bus.

According to the state police, on undivided highways and roads all vehicles must stop until children are clear of the roadway and the bus is moving. Specifically, an operator when coming upon a school bus which has stopped to receive or discharge children, shall stop such vehicle before reaching the school bus and shall not proceed until the school bus resumes motion or until signalled by the school bus driver to proceed.

On divided highways, Maine law says all vehicles in lanes traveling with the school bus must stop. Vehicles traveling in the opposite direction, but separated by curbing or other similar physical barrier or an unpaved area need not stop.

All eligible members of the board of directors were present at the Monday session.

The next meeting of the S.A.D. #44 board will be held at the Telstar Library next Monday evening, Oct. 5, at 7:30.

North Paris

—Eveline B. Vatcher, Corres.—

Another page is torn from our calendar. October's bright blue weather should bring us some spectacular foliage sights to remember all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher returned Wednesday from the Springfield Exposition, in the pouring rain. The fair is very much commercialized, so that spoils some of it. They enjoyed the Maine state exhibition hall very much and the Mugstone family, a show from California was outstanding, and we watched it three times. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stevens returned Thursday at 6 p. m.

The Lawrence family had callers: Richard Felt, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher, Charlie Coffin, Sharon and Jenny Felt, Wednesday. Root Lawrence went to Lac Magurie, Canada, with Charlie Coffin. Linwood Buck, Cleo Ryerson and grandson, Matthew, also called.

The Community Club supper was a huge success. Our largest crowd for the summer. Plenty of food including many pies of all kinds but we did run short on coffee. We also had red flannel hash. Several nice looking lads saved us many steps and we thank them.

Doris Lawrence went with Lena Dean and Lyndell Farr Monday to the Mead State Park. Then they went to bid Mr. and Mrs. Pete Collett goodbye. They were going to Wilmington, Del., for the winter. Pete had been hospitalized at Norway for several days.

Joe and Eveline Vatcher went to Bear Brook State Park near Epsom, N. H., Sunday, to the Anderson reunion. Over 100 guests were present. The foliage was beautiful and very much traffic when we were coming home.

All the books at the community hall have been sold, and we are glad, for they shouldn't be stored in an unheated building.

Laura and Joe Kalinowski took a lovely cake to Root Lawrence Thursday evening for his birthday. Carroll Record stopped by to share it and visit.

Doryce Green, South Paris, a former North Paris girl is a patient at Norway hospital and is quite sick. Let's drop her a card for old times sake.

—Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres.—

Early on Tuesday morning, from our windows the pond looked like silver-plated lead. Over the water a heron flapped its awkward way to find its fishing grounds. The world was awakened from a night of rain. Something big and gawky was crossing our lawn; a moose! My first thought was of my camera; got a picture. But with pouring rain and darkness at 6:30 I knew it would be hopeless. So we just watched it, as the cars came, stopped to look, and Mr. Moose ran in various directions. At the edge of the pond we thought he might swim but he preferred the road for a time then took to the woods. The moose's name comes from the Algonquin for "he cuts or thins smooth." That moose do, browsing on twigs, bark, leaves and shrubs. We have seen them many times across the pond wading out to feed on weeds and lilies. But this was the first so near.

During Tuesday and Wednesday I reached into my gallery of memory of things I take out, on days empty of beauty and enjoy in retrospect almost as much as I did when I tucked them away in my mind.

I pulled out Monday's walk in to Overset Pond. There was the cool, green aromatic scent of pine and spruce filling the air. The forest was like incense. The sky was high and brilliant above the painted tree tops. Along the power line, where all summer there had been an unbroken blanket of green, now was a blazing patch work of orange, russet, gold and crimson, stitched together with the evergreens.

One tiny bluet, lost, stood in the center of the road. It, too, was admiring the day, as we admired it here alone. One could almost think, May, with its loveliness of bluets with dainty enamel-like beauty that look like frost in the fresh green grass of early morning. It has been said that one bluet in bloom is of no consequence at all but this one was. Why was it in bloom? Just another question to ponder.

In places the road was filled with puddles.

Walk a country road and you witness great events accomplished. Yesterday is there, the maturity of summer. Tomorrow is there, also, waiting for another spring.

Soon the four of us, Fay, Eleanor, Zilpha and I stood on the shore of the pond. A flock of ducks flew up and circled, then disappeared around the point of land. The cliff looked down from where it stood broken and cracked by earth movement and weather; a great bulk, black, where the timber was heavy and gray where its face showed through.

Everything smiled in the sunshine. The reeds were now a drily rustling slash of gold rippling at the pond's edge. We took a last look and turned to go leaving the waters somber and still. Two wild asters lifted pale stars to nod us a good return trip.

It was just as lovely coming back. The sky was clear and clean, air crisp, free of dust and not yet full of leaves. It was good to take time to see and feel and sense the strength of the natural world. There is meaning in the stubborn hills and open, bold horizons. A rare September day.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman have moved to their home in West Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen have returned from a vacation in Michigan.

Ann Holt took her mother and father to Boston on Wednesday where her mother had an appointment with her eye doctor.

A short time ago I called on a classmate, Irene Leopold, in Bridgton.

I attended my class reunion at Gould Academy over the week end and stayed with Sylvia Luxton.

Doris Hayes visited her son, Erwin, in Bethel, Conn., over the week end. Her grandson stayed at the home place.

DARWIN LECTURE AT GOULD WEDNESDAY, OCT. 7

Gould Academy's visiting lecture series begins Wednesday, Oct. 7 with an illustrated lecture entitled "In Darwin's Footsteps on the Galapagos Islands." The slide talk will be given by Drs. Doris and Margery Milne, Professors of Zoology at the University of New Hampshire in Durham. The Milnes have been frequent visitors to Gould and their expertise and photography will be most interesting to everyone. The Milne's will also be visiting classes at Gould discussing a wide variety of topics that they have studied and written about in some 40 books and 250 articles. They are internationally known in the fields of Biology-Botany-Zoology.

The Galapagos Islands lie in the Pacific, off the coast of Peru and provided the majority of scientific data for Charles Darwin to write his biological milestone "On the Origin of Species." The Islands abound in exotic and rare wildlife including Marine Iguanas, Darwin's Finches and huge Sea Turtles.

This program is the first of visiting lecturers and will begin promptly at 7:30 p. m. in the Bingham Hall Auditorium at Gould. The public is cordially invited to attend this interesting event.

WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOC. CONTINUES REMINISCENCES

The following information was recently provided to the Woodstock Historical Society by its new President, Eva Billings Twitchell. Area residents might be interested in the material:

Circus in Bryant Pond

Ezra Stephens in the 1880's and 1890's owned a lot of circus equipment and attractions associated with the P. T. Barnum circus that travelled New England. These were stored in Bryant Pond until a fire destroyed most of the Stephens' equipment in 1907. Stephens and his wife owned a country store in Woodstock which she operated when he was on the road. He was noted locally as being an avid fox-hunter and storyteller. Their son, George Stephens, recalled the circus, the Great Diamond Circus and Australian Museum, at Bryant Pond in a 1939 article. Every spring the circus prepared to leave after the mud season. Ezra himself was known as the P. T. Barnum of Maine. He stood 6 ft. 2 in. and wore a tall beaver hat, a checked suit, and immense diamond rings and sported a handlebar moustache. He was a great barker or "outside worker" and had perfected his spiel considerably over the years. He exhibited dancing turkeys, translated crocodiles, "sea serpents," the giant S. American cockatoo, and so on. He began the show with tumblers on horseback and a toothless black bear. The dancing turkeys were caused to dance by a hot tin pan; he colored the plumage of a white Leghorn pullet as the cockatoo; the anaconda was an anguiform in a glass bottle—it was an "infant anaconda," extremely rare.

Ezra's spiel: "Now ladies and gentlemen, my distinguished fellow citizens, future presidents and millionaires of this great American republic. Listen unto me. At great expense we have collected under this canvas, a stupendous aggregation of all that in nature delights the eye and stirs the human soul to wonder and amazement. Through the dark, dark jungles of distant Africa and across the mighty mountains of the west have sped the emissaries in search of attractions for this great exhibition that is now ready for your inspection. Let me tell that there is nothing within that can offend the most fastidious. There is nothing except what can attract and elevate. Lead in your dear children by the hands, ye guardians and ye parents. Bring in your children and the children of other people. Come in even if you have no children."

P.U.C. NOTES RECEIPT OF 'LEVEL OF SERVICE' PETITION

People in Bryant Pond active in "Don't Yank the Crank" Committee have received notice from the Maine Public Utilities Commission that their petition requesting that the Bryant Pond Telephone Co. and the Oxford County Telephone Co. not abandon the present level of service, has been received. The "Notice of Complaint" received from the P.U.C. is quoted below, in part:

"On September 25, 1981, the Commission received a complaint signed by Alice Johnson et al. against Bryant Pond Telephone Company and Oxford County Telephone and Telegraph Company. The complaint, signed by more than ten persons, requests that the Company not abandon the present level of service provided customers of Bryant Pond, as more fully set forth in the complaint, a copy of which is attached to this notice."

"The Commission hereby notifies Bryant Pond Telephone Company and Oxford Telephone and Telegraph Company (hereinafter called the Company) of the complaint described above and orders that either the cause of complaint be removed within seven days or the Company file an answer to the complaint within seven days. The Commission is further notified that the complainants are responsible. Accordingly, unless the cause of complaint is removed to the satisfaction of the Commission, an investigation shall be made and a public hearing may be ordered as part of such investigation."

An attested copy of the "Notice of Complaint" was sent by regular mail to Robert Jameson, General Manager, Bryant Pond Telephone Co. and Oxford Telephone & Telegraph Co., Buckfield, and to Alice Johnson et al., Bryant Pond.

The sea serpent was made of leather and 40 ft. long. There were weight-lifting and lung-testing machines in the circus and a pony team. The show travelled New England and Eastern New York and located near the centers of towns. Ezra was one of the first to use colored banners in advertising.

Ezra's spiel: "Now ladies and gentlemen, my distinguished fellow citizens, future presidents and millionaires of this great American republic. Listen unto me. At great expense we have collected under this canvas, a stupendous aggregation of all that in nature delights the eye and stirs the human soul to wonder and amazement. The U. S. public school system is one of the few major education systems in the world that is attempting to provide a free, universal, public education for all who want it. In many other countries, education—beyond basic, required years of schooling—is available only to select segments of the school age population.

Round II in the administration's economic recovery plan begins this week with deliberations over a new set of budget cuts.

All indications thus far point to a tougher battle for the president in his attempts to sell the Congress on his proposals to cut another $16 billion from the budget. The latest round of budget cuts results from the realization on the part of the administration that the 1982 deficit could run much higher than anticipated, thus damaging plans to balance the budget by 1984. But the means by which the president and his braintrust have decided to accomplish the deeper cuts has raised the first signs of trouble on Capitol Hill.

The Administration has indicated that $2 billion of the new cuts will come from the defense budget. To many members of Congress who supported the President in earlier budget deliberations, including myself, this figure is simply unacceptable.

Last week, I joined in a letter with my colleagues on the Steering Committee of the Northeast-Midwest Republicans—also known as the Gypsy Moths—to House Republican Leader Robert Michel and Office of Management and Budget Director David Stockman. The letter called for 1982 defense spending reductions of about $9 billion, or $7 billion more than the administration has proposed.

As the letter stated, "it is essential that the defense budget, which was virtually exempt from the first round of cuts, now be given the same vigorous scrutiny that has been accorded domestic programs. Our study indicates that $9 billion can be trimmed from the (defense) budget without jeopardizing national security or world peace."

"In fact," it continued "such scrutiny can only work to focus greater attention on the best methods for achieving a truly effective defense, while at the same time enhancing the strength of the nation through an equally strong economy."

Other portions of the president's earlier coalition also show signs of balking at the latest cuts for a variety of reasons. The president's

S.A.D. #44 ADULT ED. ADDS MORE THURSDAY CLASSES

The S.A.D. #44 Adult and Community Education program has added an additional evening section of the Adult Learning Center to be offered on Thursday evenings starting Oct. 1 at Telstar Regional High School from 6:30 to 8:30. This will offer the opportunity for adults to work individually in English or Math under the direction of Ann Holt. Adults who are participating in the External Credit Option for high school completion may use this time to develop their learning projects or for individual help. A course in Basic Sewing will be offered in conjunction with the Adult Learning Center from 7:30 - 9:30 in the Home Ec. room at Telstar. Students taking the sewing program will attend the Learning Center for one hour before the sewing class begins. This combined effort is the direct result of planning done by members of Lillian Conant's Basic Sewing Class last spring. A substantial number of the students in the class did not have a high school diploma, and agreed that they would like to work as a group in a class which combined basic skills and sewing. Sharon Felt will serve as instructor for the sewing course, and she and the students already enrolled would welcome others who would like to learn with them.

powers of persuasion are well documented, but the debate over more cuts is being seen as a matter of political survival by more and more members of Congress. And the cuts being pushed by the administration are more painful than the last round, with greater political implications.

Tax-Exempt Bonds: Last week, I introduced legislation in Congress to reverse a recent Internal Revenue Service (IRS) ruling regarding the so-called umbrella bond program.

The ruling which took effect Aug. 24, denies tax exemption for multiple lots of bonds of $1 million or less that are pooled together and issued as one bond.

This ruling would have a devastating impact on small businesses and farmers. Affordable credit resources already are difficult to obtain. The ruling would, in effect disallow states from issuing tax-exempt agricultural and industrial bonds, putting financing even further out of reach.

Such a ruling is unacceptable to a state such as Maine, since a large proportion of our economy depends upon the livelihood of small businesses and farms. In addition to introducing the bill, I also have written to Treasury Secretary Donald Regan and asked him to revoke the ruling. One way or another, this ruling must be rescinded.

tive Committee as Secretary of the Board. Last year he resigned from the board, the same year his youngest daughter, Nancy, graduated from Gould. His other two daughters are also Gould graduates, Betsy in 1974 and Judy in 1976.

Mr. Stowell's other interests include the local School Committee and the S.A.D. #44 Board, a Corporation and Trustee of the Bethel Savings Bank and a choir member and church officer of the West Parish Congregational Church.

This award was made on the occasion of Mr. Stowell's 35th class reunion and is a fitting tribute to one who has exemplified the goals and ideals of the Academy since its beginning in 1836.

Sent in by Eva Yates:

A foggy Monday morning but we will hope for some sunshine later. The foliage is beautiful and so are the flowers. No frost yet here. Everything is going O.K. The onions and carrots are in and the corn is gone by and the taters are about all dug. I think the Go Shoes have been on the hook all week. They don't like to get out in the rain but yesterday as it was birthday, they went to East Andover along with Joe and Peggy and enjoyed a delicious boiled dinner. We ate ever good—and it was topped off with pie—three kinds—delicious custard, super chocolate and strawberry—not so super. The others were way ahead of strawberry. Bernard and I agreed on that. Merna Allen dropped in so we had a chat with her—that's always nice. So if the weather wasn't too good the day was great. So it pays to have birthdays if you are old. Thanks to all who sent lovely cards, gifts, etc.

We had as callers last night my grandson, Gregory Adams, and wife, Frances and son, Robbie.

TELSTAR CROSS COUNTRY

Telstar's cross country team dipped to 0-5 with losses to Valley, 15-47, and Dirigo-Oak Hill, 25-54. Absences and injuries combined with limited depth hurt a valiant team effort. Rick Savage turned in good performances at both meets.

Just as they left thundershowers came and stayed until after 10 p. m. We don't lack for water at present any way.

Mrs. Wynona Woolf of Auburn, Mrs. Viva Whitman of Norway, Darnita Yates and baby, Eva, of Sanford were Saturday callers at Joe and Eva Yates.

Friday evening caller was Barbara Yates.

Remember Pomona Grange is at Bear River Grange, Oct. 6. Next regular meeting of Bear River Grange is Oct. 10, downstairs, preceded by the regular pot luck supper. No pot luck, no supper.

I still feel I got to phone the President and tell him where he can make some of the drastic cuts he wants to make. There is only one place and he seems to have overlooked it. The world won't come to an end—Reagan or none—so keep smiling.
